Fish Tournament Season is Florida's Historic Coast with Year-Round Tournaments

Get hooked on Florida's favorite pastime with inshore, coastal, and offshore competition

St. Augustine, Fla. (May 6, 2025) – Florida's Historic Coast is the place to venture beyond the land to hook the big one. Whether anglers are battling it out for money, a trophy, or a cool selfie with a really big catch, fishing tournaments are big game.

Big tournaments kick off this week with The Salt Life Bluewater Tournament May 8-10. Hosted by Northeast Florida Marlin Association NEFMA, this tournament attracts competitors worldwide to compete for the biggest catches of pelagic species, like marlin, tuna, and dolphin fish, also known as mahi mahi or dorado.

The Ancient City Gamefish Association presents the June 26-28 Ancient City Kingfish and Junior Kingfish Challenge that takes to the seas with fishing boats searching for king mackerel that can grow up to 72 inches long and over 90 pounds.

Fishermen and fisherwomen who are looking for a real challenge need look no further than the Northeast Florida Marlin Association (NEFMA)'s Blue Marlin Bounty. From March to December, whoever brings in a blue marlin measuring over 105" from lower jaw to fork length wins. Started in April 2022, the winnings remain untouched. The NEFMA also runs a year-long Tournament Series Championship, where anglers can accumulate points over a series of five events, catching mahi, billfish, wahoo, and more.

Inshore anglers can fish and raise money for charity at the Inshore Fishing Tournament on June 6-7, which benefits St. Services. With categories for men, women, and youth, it's all fish, like trout and flounder.

Looking to fish, but without the fanfare of competition? St. Ponte Vedra and The Beaches have plenty of great fishing holes guides to get hooked on.
